PRIOR LEARNING ASSESSMENT METHODS RECOGNIZED IN EVALUATING COLLEGE CREDIT WAIVERS

ACE Military Evaluation Program

College credits may be granted for military service school courses and skills if the awarding of credit is recommended in the current edition of the American Council on Education (ACE) publication, a Guide to the Evaluation of Educational Experiences in the Armed Services.

The old AARTS and SMART have merged into the Joint Service Transcript (JST) which is what the LESB will review and evaluate when making a decision regarding how many credits to waive for prior military service. Additional information regarding the JST may be found here: <https://jst.doded.mil>

Credit by Examination

CLEP

The most widely recognized credit by examination program is the College-Level Examination Program, known as CLEP. CLEP examinations cover material taught in courses that most students take as requirements in the first two years of college. Many CLEP examinations are designed to correspond to one-semester courses; some, however, correspond to full-year or two-year courses. Each CLEP examination is 90 minutes in length.

Go to the CLEP website for more information on CLEP examinations and for testing locations: <http://clep.collegeboard.org/>.

DSST (formerly known as DANTES)

The DSST program is an extensive series of 38 examinations in college subject areas that are comparable to the final or end-of-course examinations in undergraduate courses. ACE recommends 3 semester hours of credit per test.

Go to the DSST website for more information on DSST examinations and for testing locations: <http://www.getcollegecredit.com/>.

Credit for Prior Learning or Advanced Standing

Offered by many colleges (including technical colleges) and universities, students complete a portfolio documenting their previous work, life and military experiences that are comparable in content and level with specific courses at the college or university. The portfolio is then reviewed by college or university faculty who determine course and credit equivalents. To locate a portfolio development program, consult the registration offices at colleges and universities in your community. A good source of information about portfolio assessment, and prior learning assessment in general, is Earn College Credit for What You Know, by Lois Lamdin.

Credit for Completion of Preparatory Training

Preparatory law enforcement, jail and secure detention officer training courses are technical diploma level courses, unless the training is integrated into an associate degree or bachelor's degree program.

Individuals who have completed preparatory training may request that the LESB waive associate degree level credits for their successful completion of preparatory training. The LESB may waive up to 20 associate degree level college credits for successful completion of the 720-hours of preparatory law enforcement training; 17 associate degree level college credits for the successful completion of the 520-hours of preparatory law enforcement training; 5 associate degree level college credits for the successful completion of the 200-hours of preparatory jail training; and 4 associate degree level college credits for the successful completion of the 160-hours of preparatory juvenile detention training. Training must be successfully completed prior to requesting a waiver of credits; and the Training and Standards Bureau must have a transcript on file from the academy where preparatory training was completed.

College Credits from an Overseas Institution

College credits from an overseas institution are acceptable to meet the eligibility requirement contingent upon an assessment of the transcript by a professional evaluation service agency recognized by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services: <https://www.naces.org/members>. College credits from an overseas institution must be equivalent to associate degree level college credits or higher.

Other Prior Learning Assessment Methods

The LESB will consider credit recommendations via other prior learning assessment methods on a case-by-case basis. Examples include College Board Advanced Placement Examinations, Excelsior College Examinations (ECE), and the American Council on Education Program on Non-Collegiate Sponsored Instruction (ACE/PONSI).

HOW TO DOCUMENT A COLLEGE CREDIT WAIVER REQUEST

In addition to the College Credit Application Form (DJ-LE-331) on page 2:

- Military personnel and veterans should submit a Joint Services Transcript (JST).
- Individuals who have completed CLEP (College Level Equivalency Program) or DSST examinations should provide score reports.
- Individuals who have gone through a portfolio process at a college or university should submit an official transcript from the college or university documenting associate degree level college credits or higher awarded by the college or university.
- Individuals requesting a waiver of associate degree level college credits for the successful completion of preparatory law enforcement, jail and/or secure juvenile detention officer training should include a letter requesting a waiver of college credits for completion of preparatory training. The Training and Standards Bureau will already have a transcript showing completion of training on file.
- Individuals requesting a waiver of college credits achieved at an overseas institution of higher learning must provide an assessment of their transcript(s) by a professional evaluation service agency recognized by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services.
